A Fourteenth Street Growl.

To the Editor of The Evening Star:

As you are one of the mediums through which citizens do their growling, just let this growl have its chance.

1. The nuisance of the cable cars sweeping out the refuse, including hundreds of ticket envelopes, on the street, to be blown wherever the wind listeth, and some of them having come down my way to land on the lawn to be swept or raked up by a hired man, makes a costly job when the police regulations say that the sweepings of stores cannot be placed on the street. niles) sees it occasionally, but does not object to the company breaking the law, while a poor storekeeper would get fined for making half the

2. The street sweeping has got down to the point of being a nuisance itself—the light machines just spread the dirt out like so much plaster and it remains on the street—the amount ed up by the carts being equal to about ne shovelful to ten square yards supposed to be swept! The rest has to blow off in dust smothering everything indoors and out of doors. We growl for clean streets and pro-pose to have them. We pay for them, and a big price at that. J. G. J.

The Associated Charities

At a meeting of the directors of the second subdivision, Associated Charities, the reports of the officers were received and examined. L. A. Littlefield and A. M. Gangewer were appointed a committee to audit the account of W. G. Duckett, treasurer. The society began operations December 15, 1892, and closed March 15. 1893. The unusual severe and protracted cold weather was not foreseen or provided for, but the appeal to the charitable for aid for the sick and suffering was most generously responded to. All the services rendered in connection with the subdivision, except those of the lady visitor, who gave her whole attention to the work, were given without charge. The committee reported as follows: Amount paid to treasurer. $890.34, not including clothing valued at $50; shoes, $15; coal, $9; bread, $38.50; oatmeal, $6, and groceries from Union M. E. Church, from Mt. Pleasant School and from mission. The number of families relieved was 541: adults in families, 720: children, 995. Number of orders issued, 829. The expenditures were: For bread, $85.90; postage, 45, 71; rent, $30; printing, &c., $11.60; repairs to stove, 75 cents; chairs, $1.50; salary of lady to stove, 75 cents; chairs, $1.50; salary of lady visitor. $60: fuel. $299.63; groceries, $387—total, $880.09, leaving a balance of $10.25 in

THE LIQUOR DEALERS MEET.

They Will Aid Bush in His Fight Against the New Law.

The meeting of the Federation of Liquor Dealers at Faber's Hall yesterday afternoon, torn and sold away from his parents when mention of which was made in THE STAR of yesterday, did not result in the excited discussion of the liquor question anticipated by the president of the federation when he requested that the reporters should submit their reports to an inspection before sending them to their papers, about the most important business done being the election of the following officers Hugh Cosgrove; recording and corresponding secretary, E. L. Jordan; financial secretary, Frank P. Madigan, and treasurer, William Mc-Guire. Four additional members of the board number of the members of the association of a of directors: Lew Neumeyer, W. A. Power, E. Walsh and J. F. Dahle. MR. CLARKE'S ADDRESS.

Mr. John A. Clarke, one of the attorneys for the liquor dealers, having been invited to address the meeting, expressed some regret that it was not possible for him to photograph those present that he might contrast them with those who classed them as "rum sellers." Mr. Clarke's regret was the regret of those present, for the remark was loudly applauded. He explained that the meeting was not called for the purpose of shedding blood, but that those attending the meeting had come as law-abiding citizens. A decision had been recently rendered against them, but he thanked God that there was a higher court. Those who con-demned the liquor dealers forgot that the dealers had homes and that they were reputable the police court was merely a test case, said Mr. Clarke, and if the dealers had imagined that the decision would have been otherwise they were not the men he had supposed they were. Mr. Clarke advised the dealers to abuse no one, the District Commissioners, Judge Miller nor any one else, but to be men, conservative and the procession, and she was accused of having law-abiding. Judge Milier's decision would, he felt certain, be reversed by the upper court and their rights be secured to them STATUS OF THE LIQUOR DEATERS.

> On the motion of Mr. Frank P. Madigan s vote of thanks and confidence was unanimously extended to Mr. Clarke and the meeting then proceeded to the election of officers. The election over, the status of the liquor dealers under the recent decision of the Police Court was informally discussed, and it was decided that the assistance of the organization be given Mr. Bush in his fight and a call will also be made to the home brewers and agents of foreign brewing companies to contribute funds for the fight.
> During this discussion it was stated that > liquor dealers who were compelled to apply for a license under the new law could not obtain the amount of their deposit filed for a license under the old law except by special act of Congress. These deposits, it was said, have been placed in the United States treasury to the credit of the District and were being expended for schools, street improvements and the like. After a short meeting of the board of directors the meeting adjourned.

ANACOSTIA.

Mass Meeting of Citizens to Protest Agains the Contagious Disease Hospital.

A mass meeting was held at Masonic Hall. Anacostia, last night to protest against the location near that place of the proposed hospital for contagious diseases. The meeting fulfilled all the hopes of its promoters. The attendance was large, enthusiastic and representative. Property owners were out in force.

At 8 o'clock Judge George H. Armstrong called the gathering to order and was on mo tion of Col. A. B. Frisbie elected chairman. Col. H. S. Stow was chosen secretary. The He was thereupon released.

Addie Mason, a neatly dressed colored woman A committee consisting of A. B. Frisbie, chairfrom Louse alley, said guilty to a charge of man: H. A. Griswold, Henry A. Linger, James disorderly conduct, and went down for fifteen M. Beyer, James E. Halley, W. Marden King and B. E. Messer was appointed to draft and report resolutions explaining Anacostia's opposition to the proposed hospital. Chairman Armstrong was added to the committee and Dr. G. W. Fisher made chairman pro tem. Pending the preparation of the resolut there was a vigorous interchange of ideas. The resolutions, as reported, were generally declared to be too tame and diplomatic. The Anacostians wanted to singe the Commissioners with words of fire. Discussion followed.

WHY IT SHOULD NOT BE IN ANACOSTIA the real estate dealers who had invested capita in Northeast Washington. To reach any site which might be chosen here it would be necesthe pest ambulance to cross the Anacostia bridge and pass within three feet of street cars, carriages and strings of vehicles. Then after leaving the bridge it would have to pass through one of the most densely populated precincts of the District.

Mr. R. B. Buckley said that the way was long and narrow and that the passage of the bridge would have to be made at a snail's pace and the ambulance compelled to lay to an hour or so because of the draw, that had to be raised for every sand scow. Mr. O. W. Guerarom thought that the hos pital should have water, light, sewerage and be conducted on approved methods. Were it located near here this could not be, unless the District erected water works and put in a gar or electric light plans. Roche, pt. 14, sq. 523; Pesth yesterday. In other words, the latest items of news-political, local, commercial, sporting and other—are sent out from a central office by telephone to the subscribers, who for this intelligence pay the very modest sum of seventy-five cents a month. This novel undertaking comprises at its central office two de-partments—a regular editorial office, which re-ceives the telegraphic and oral messages and works them up into leaders or paragraphs, and special telephonic publishing department where experienced speakers, each possessing a soft but distinct voice, transmit through the instruments the contents of the manuscripts delivered from hour to hour by the first depart-

The service commences at 8 o'clock in the morning and lasts until 9 in the evening. The novelty has so far been very well received in the Hungarian capital.
